ABOUT PREMIUM BOOKS.

All persons paying for THE COURIER-GAZETTE a year, for articles of interest well worth perusal, are entitled to a copy of our premium book "The History of the State of Maine," 644 pages, bound in oil cloth, leather binding and new, most deftly done. Regular price $2.25. Our subscribers may have the book at a special price of 10 cents a year. Premium coupons are given with this premium.

Strawberries are in the market at 50 cents a box.

The Bay Point will have a big year's business.

R. E. Moore has had the Myrtle House put into fine shape.

Just twenty years ago that Rockland had its first daily paper—the Globe.

A. H. Baker is to stage the play "Our Boys" for the Thomaston High School pupils.

Walter M. Tapley, with Fernald, Hethen & Co., was the first yearly subscriber to THE DAILY SUN.

Mrs. A. H. Berry has received a large box of beautiful orange blossoms from friends in San Francisco.

It's been a good Winter for sledding. L. N. Thomdike on the Thomaston road, used runners for 93 consecutive days.

Beginning April 1st the clothing and shoe stores of this city will close on the evenings of each Tuesday and Friday.

George A. Brannhall, Berkeley street, and J. R. Baker, Franklin street, are making additions to their buildings.

Garrett Coughlin is revelling in delicious oranges from a box sent him direct from Florida by Gen. Davis Tilson.

The ice has moved out of Union Bay and from now on the boats of the Bluebell & Ellsworth line will make all landings.

If your 1893 taxes are not yet paid, remember you are paying interest upon them at the rate of ten per cent, dating from last Oct. 15th.

C. J. Burrows has another car load of horses this week, Thursday, at Clinton house stables—also Canada West stock and good material.

The ladies of the Congregational church society are preparing for a fair, the proceeds of which are expected to clear up the remainder of the church debt.

The road commission is receiving daily blessings upon the part of those who travel over the new plank crossings. During this season of unlimited mud, anything like a firm foundation is very gratifying to walk upon.

Parties with accounts against the city who wish them to come before the committee on accounts and claims should leave them at the city treasurer's office. Don't leave them with members of the committee.

That scavenger team matter is an important move, and Mr. Perry should be encouraged to proceed with his enterprise. It means, perhaps, good health for our community through the summer season.

Road Commissioner Franz M. Simmons qualified Saturday last and is now in charge of our streets. Mr. Simmons has had a year's experience on the late lamented commission and will give us a good administration.

Capt. Wm. Sartell of steamer Mr. Deser has been presented by Garrett Coughlin with a beautiful oil painting representing only's head. The work was done by Miss Annie Coughlin and reflects great credit on her artistic capabilities.

M. M. Gentner and C. Laiselle have devised and had patented a process for heating by the sinking of lime. Lime is enclosed in a cylinder and water applied. An intense heat is generated, and maintained a surprisingly long time. Seems like a big thing.

The drama and ball given under the auspices of Pleasant Valley Grange Friday night was a success in every sense of the word. "Stuffed" was the title of the four act comedy presented and the members of the Grange who made up the cast of characters did their parts justice.

A great audience packed the Methodist church last evening on the occasion of the Seal hour birthday exercises under the auspices of the local W. C. T. U. and Good Templars. Hon. C. E. Littlefield presided in his usual effective manner and made a spirited address.

The directors of the Creamery Association met at the Court House Thursday and organized with the election of Charles M. Brainerd, president and Obadiah Gardner manager. Mr. Gardner is just recovering from severe illness and desires a week in which to signify his acceptance or declination of the office.

The stockholders of the Hallowell Granite company met Tuesday and elected the following board of directors: George M. Brainerd, John S. Case, E. S. Wall, E. H. Lowry, E. P. Walker, J. F. Bodwell, John Lowe. At a subsequent meeting of the directors these officers were chosen: President, Geo. M. Brainerd; secretary and treasurer, E. H. Lowry.

Rockland's Grocers' Association is now in active operation. The system adopted regarding "poor payers" is somewhat as follows: Every such party will be requested to settle, and if they fail to do so their names will be carried into the association and all the grocers in the city will know of the fact. The grocery stores now close at eight p. m.

S. T. Magridge, the well known salemaker, has bought the business of W. F. Tibbets, who has been located at the Brook, 477 Main street, for a number of years. Mr. Magridge was born in Maine and served in the army during the Rebellion. He came to Rockland one year ago and the success he has met here has been something phenomenal. His congregation has more than doubled and never has there been so much interest manifested in church work. His congregation will regret his departure if he decides to accept the call.

A. E. Tisdale, the eloquent speaker, will close his engagement here next Sunday. His subject for discussion at the 2 p. m. meeting will be "Christianity and Spiritualism face to face before the bar of Reason." In the evening session will be "The Value of Spiritualism to the world." Mr. Tisdale's discourse last Sunday was a masterly production showing that facts are the finger points of God and that universal revelation is of nature. He declared that history bears out the assertion that there was a high state of morality in Egypt 1500 years before the Christian era and that Confucius and other oriental philosophers gave expression to some of the grandest truths ever known 500 B. C. Reason is a divine attribute and must not be ruled out in the study of any question not even religion. The meeting next Sunday will be in commemoration of the forty sixth anniversary of modern spiritualism.

Dr. W. E. Rice the well known corn doctor from Dr. Kenison's will be in Rockland April 6th and 7th. All persons troubled with their feet should see him. See advertisement.

Tapley's "Broad Winder" outwore all other shoes.

THE INTERESTING STORY IN THE COURIER-GAZETTE OF LAST TUESDAY WAS WRITTEN BY TRUE P. PIERCE, ETC., OF THIS CITY. 'Twas very prettily conceived and executed.

The Congregationalist ladies hold their church circle next Wednesday. Mrs. F. W. Wright, Mrs. C. E. Littlefield and Miss Imogene Pierce are to be housekeepers.

The sidewalk on South Main street, between Mechanic street and the South Thompson street, has been righted and placed in repair. It has been in bad shape all winter.

The literary department of the Epworth League met with Rev. C. W. Bradley Thursday evening and listened to a most interesting paper on the World's Fair read by Dr. R. B. Miller. Much interest was added to the meeting by the following brief musical program: L. G. March, solo; Misses Evelyn Crockett and Alice Burnham, piano duet; Miss Alice Black, piano solo; Miss Florine Jones, violin solo.

Rockland people who burn gas have noticed an annoying blowing from their jets recently. The gas company are experimenting with the Wilder process of manufacturing, which if tried successfully will materially reduce the price of gas to consumers. It is this experimenting that is causing the pressure that has caused the disagreeable noises from your chandeliers. The company think the result will be in every way satisfactory to their customers. The best of gas at prices lower than ever.

The new steamer Bangor, which has been in process of construction at Boston, is to be given her trial trip today. Fred Lohr, who has just returned from a trip to the Hub, says that the new boat is a dandy. She is built on the plan of the famous Puritan of the Fall River line and is elegantly fitted with all the improvements known in the present day. The Bangor is 30 feet longer than our Pembroke and a handsome craft our readers will seldom be privileged to see. She is expected to go on the route sometime in June, taking the Penobscot's place and arriving here Wednesday and Saturday. The Pembroke then takes the route of the Kalamazoo.

A number of guests enjoyed the open meeting of the Shakespeare Society last evening at the beautiful home of Mrs. J. L. May, Grove street. The parlors were transformed into a charming stage setting, and the arrangement of the balcony scene was exceptionally artistic. Ten scenes in all from "Romeo and Juliet" were rendered by the ladies of the society, in appropriate costumes, to the great enjoyment of the spectators. The cast was: "Romeo," Mrs. A. T. Blackington; "Juliet," Mrs. W. W. Nelson; "Mercutio," Miss Martha D. Ellis; "Benvolio," Miss Evelyn Crockett; "Friar Lawrence," Miss Angeline Graves; "Tybalt," Miss Katharine Lowry; "Nurse," Mrs. D. N. Mortland; "Capulet," Miss Caroline Achorn. Miss Annie Frye admirably delivered a synopsis of the play. The whole affair was splendid, and the public ought certainly to have opportunity to witness a performance by this society. The banjo playing between scenes by Misses Lucy Peck and Mabel Orleton added greatly to the evening's entertainment.

CHURCHES.

The First Baptist Church has had 150 conversions since last Easter.

The Free Baptist Sunday School will give an Easter concert next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock.

Miss Linnie Alfreda Brewster of Portland will address the young people at the Advent church this evening at seven o'clock. All, both old and young, are invited.

"Easter" will be appropriately observed at the Methodist church next Sabbath. The pastor, Rev. C. W. Bradley will preach in the morning and the Sunday school will have a concert in the evening. There will be special decorations and music.

Passion week services are being held at St. Bernard's Catholic church this week as follows: Tuesday, the last day of ministry; Thursday, the night of remembrance; Friday, the day of the cross. All interested in the acts of our Lord during these last days of his life are invited to be present.

Palm Sunday was appropriately observed at St. Peter's Episcopal Church. The decorations were elaborate, consisting of palms brought from the South and potted plants. Special music had been prepared for the occasion and the singing of the surpliced choir was pronounced grand. In the procession the choir led by Master Sterling Moody, the young son of Rev. J. S. Moody, bore palms. At the conclusion of the forenoon and evening services pieces of palms cut in the form of crosses were distributed among the congregation.

The Augusta correspondent of the Boston Globe has the following to say in regard to a former well-known Rockland pastor: "Rev. L. S. Cummings, pastor of the Methodist church in this city, has received a call to one of the large Methodist parishes in Portland, but has not yet decided to accept it. Mr. Cummings came to this city from Rockland one year ago and the success he has met here has been something phenomenal. His congregation has more than doubled and never has there been so much interest manifested in church work. His congregation will regret his departure if he decides to accept the call."

A. E. Tisdale, the eloquent speaker, will close his engagement here next Sunday. His subject for discussion at the 2 p. m. meeting will be "Christianity and Spiritualism face to face before the bar of Reason." In the evening session will be "The Value of Spiritualism to the world." Dr. W. E. Rice the well known corn doctor from Dr. Kenison's will be in Rockland April 6th and 7th. All persons troubled with their feet should see him. See advertisement.

Tapley's "Broad Winder" outwore all other shoes.

Amusements and Announcements.

Thursday night the Alfarata Council ladies will entertain again at Oakland. Last week's dance was a decided social success, and will be repeated.

Hamilton Lodge of Good Templars will hold a social next Thursday evening. There will be an entertainment after which ice cream will be served. Admission ten cents.

The tickets for the "Venus" opera are now ready at the opera house. The opening with great brilliancy this morning. This is the first and best company that has ever looked here and the capacity of the house will be tested.

The grand ball at Farwell opera house one week from Friday night promises to be the great event of the season. Music will be furnished by Messey's quintet. The object of the affair is to aid in getting a free bed at the Emergency Hospital, a most worthy object surely. The prices of admission are $1 to a couple, 75c and 50c for the single.

Rockland is now becoming quite metropolitan in the amusement line. Among the many engaged by the management for Farwell Opera House for April are the ever popular Jack Mason and his beautiful and talented wife, Marion Manola, for April 23, in the daily performance, "Friend Fritz," April 24, comes "Venus," under the management of E. E. Rice, with elegant orchestra and all the beautiful spectacular effects which have characterized this performance in the big cities.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Jane A. Ingraham died Saturday at her home on the Marsh road aged nearly 79 years. Deceased was the wife of Deacon Hiram Ingraham whom she married over 54 years ago, and a most highly respectable lady. She was for many years a prominent member of the Baptist church, having become converted to that faith under Rev. Amariah Kallioh at West Camden, now West Rockport. At the time of her death she was a very prominent member of the First Baptist church in this city. She leaves a husband and two sons, Roscoe G. of this city, and Hiram, of Boothbay. The funeral took place yesterday at 10 o'clock a. m., Rev. J. H. Parsley, assisted by Rev. W. G. Holman, officiating.

THURSDAY'S FIRE.

Shortly after 11 o'clock Thursday night, Capt. Anson B. Cushman, night clerk at the Thomdike house, discovered flames burning through the ceiling of G. H. Copeland's store in Millbury block.

Deputy Marshal A. C. Hamilton ran in an alarm and the night police force had a hose cart promptly dragged to the scene. The fire department arrived promptly and did a most excellent piece of work stopping the progress of the fire.

It is supposed to have caught around the stove in Dr. P. E. Luce's office. G. H. Copeland sustained a heavy loss by water, insured with Cushman, Baker & Cross and Rice, Biril & Barney. Dr. Luce's loss has been adjusted through the agency of A. J. Erskine & Son at $1,500. The damage to the building was about $200.

On Its Own Merits.

There appears in another column of this paper an advertisement calling attention to the Red Seal Sarsaparilla. This is the preparation that is fast gaining popularity with the people.

FISHING ITEMS.

The following fishing arrivals were reported by the Charles E. Weeks Company yesterday.

Henry I. Phillips, Carroll, 24,000 pounds mixed shad fish.

Carl Smith, Lord, 5,000 pounds mixed shad fish.

Moves B. Linscott, Wallace, 8,000 pounds shad fish.

Capt. Carroll of the Rockland fishing schooner Henry I. Phillips reports dense fog in the bay Sunday night. He experienced considerable delay in getting in.

Hake are just beginning to make their appearance along the shore.

UNDERPAID CLERGY.

SOME OF THEM RECEIVE LESS THAN A DRAPER'S CLERK.

The Trials and Final Reward of an English Curate in the Eighteenth Century.

Extracts from a Diary Which Tell a Dramatic Tale of Privation.

A great deal is heard from time to time about the underpaid clergy.

It has been recently said by an English writer that "there are many clerks in holy orders who receive less than clerks in linen draper's shops."

This is especially true in Europe, where the clergy, or at least the curates, are paid such miserably poor stipends that but for the generosity of the parishioners they could not live.

In the United States, too, the clergyman, usually a college bred man of talents and refinement, receives a salary altogether out of proportion to his calling and his ability.

This remark does not apply to the clergy in the large cities, to many of whom are paid very large salaries.

In New York city, for example, it is said that there are 100 ministers who receive salaries of $10,000, and many of them have rectorial or parish houses free in addition.

But in the country towns, east and west alike, the minister who gets $2,000 is a rare exception.

Many, perhaps the majority, do not receive as much as $1,000.

While the reflection may not prove of tangible benefit to these underpaid servants in the highest of callings, still it is interesting to know that in a social and in a financial way, and in the self-respect consequent upon these conditions, the clergyman of today is vastly better off than the chaplain or curate of a century ago.

In point of abject poverty there are no vicars of Wakefield today, nor any chaplains who figure as jesters or buffoons, as did many of the more favored ones of Goldsmith's day.

The following extract from The Gentleman's Magazine of 1766 shows how poor was the lot of the curate of that time:

"Monday—Received £10 from my rector, being one-half year's salary; obliged to wait a long time before my admission to the doctor, and even when admitted was never once asked to sit down or refresh myself, though I had walked 11 miles. Item—The doctor hinted he could have the curacy filled for £15 a year.

"Tuesday—Paid 29 to seven different people, but could not lay the second-hand pair of black breeches offered me as a great bargain, my wife wanting to sit down or refresh myself, though I had walked 11 miles. Item—The doctor hinted he could have the curacy filled for £15 a year.

"Wednesday—My wife bought a petticoat for herself and shoes for her two daughters, but unluckily, in coming home, dropped half a guinea through a hole which she had never before perceived in her pocket and reduced all our cash in the world to half a crown. Item—Child my poor woman for being afflicted at the misfortune and tenderly advised her to depend upon the goodness of God.

"Thursday—Received a note from the rector, at the top of the hill, informing me that a gentleman begged to speak to me on pressing business. Went and found it was an unfortunate member of a strolling company of players, who was pledged for sevenpence half penny. In a struggle what to do. The baker, through we had paid him but on Tuesday, quarrelled with us, to avoid paying any credit in future, and the butcher sent us word that he heard it whispered how the rector intended to take a curate who would do the parish duty at an inferior price, and therefore, though he would do anything to serve us, advised me to deal at the upper end of the town. Mortifying reflections, but a want of humility is, in my opinion, a want of justice. The Father of the universe lends his blessings to us, with a view that we should relieve one another, and we consequently do no more than pay a debt when we perform an act of benevolence. Paid the stranger's reckoning out of the shilling in my pocket and gave him the remainder of the money to prosecute his journey.

"Friday—A very scant dinner, and pretended therefore to be ill, that, by avoiding to eat, I might leave something like enough for my poor wife and children. I told my wife what I had done with the shilling; the excellent creature, instead of blaming me for the action, blessed the goodness of my heart and burst into tears. Monday—Never to contradict her as long as I live, for the mind that can argue like this, though it may deviate from the more rigid sentiments of prudence, is even amiable for the intention, and in every lapse from the severity of economy performs an act of virtue, superior to the virtue of a kingdom.

"Saturday—Wrote a sermon, which on Sunday I preached at four different parish churches, who receive excessive weekly wages and are excessively hungry, no more money than twopenny half penny in the house, but you see the goodness of God! The strolling player whom I had refused was a man of fortune, who accidentally heard that I was as famous as I was indigent, and from a generous eccentricity of temper waited to do me an essential piece of service. I had not been an hour at home when he came in, and declaring himself my friend put a £50 note in my hand, and the next day presented me with a living of £300 a year."

An Indian's Dictionary.

I heard a story of a celebrated Indian in England who had been shot.

Truth to tell, the poor shot very badly, and the game's price was barely paid to the hunter.

With a few low, he said, "my own money shot splendidly, but that was very unkind to the hunter."

TRICOLOR AND COCKADE.

Origin of the Historic Red, White and Blue Colors of France.

Some 70 or 80 years before France was involved in the flames of the revolution, that is, at the epoch of the war of the succession, when she was in close alliance with Spain and Bavaria—it was thought desirable to distinguish the allied soldiers by a cockade, which combined the colors of the three nations, the white of France, the red of Spain, and the blue of Bavaria.

To none of such incidents, however, would it be wise to attribute the origin of the historic tricolor and cockade adopted by revolutionary France. At the outset there seemed a likelihood that green, which Camille Desmoulins had popularized at the Palais Royal, would have formed the central color, but men remembered in time that it was that of the livery of the Comte d'Artois, the most unpopular of the Bourbon princes, and it was thereupon discarded.

A proposition was then made to assume the colors of the city of Paris—blue and red, as Dumas reminds us in his "Six Ans d'Après." To these was added the white of so many glorious memories, because it had been selected by the national guard—always faithful to the throne and its traditions.

Not until some months after the capture of the Bastille was the tricolor definitely adopted when Bailly and Lafayette presented it to Louis XVI in the great hall of the Hotel de Ville, and the convention issued a decree in which it was described as consisting of three colors—"disposés en trois bandes égales, de manière que le bleu soit attaché à la garde du pavillon, le blanc au milieu, et le rouge flottant dans les airs," that is, in equal vertical sections, with the blue toward the red outward and the white between.

This is the historic flag which Napoleon's legions, in conjunction with their eagles, bore victoriously from the Seine to the Elbe, the Tagus, the Bosphorus and the Danube, which they planted victoriously on the walls of almost every European capital.—All the Year Round.

English Criminals.

Doubtless, to judge from your average daily journal, murders and anti-cases, crimes and catastrophes, wars and famines and frosts, would seem to remain the staple of the human record. But it is remembered that, for obvious reasons, all our worst and darkest is collected there. One might as well judge of public health by the painful cases described in a medical publication as of the vast mass of solid human happiness and innocent living by the daily catalogue of these really trivial exceptions to it. As for instance—the most serious of which are only such as are malitious—though the population increases, they seem steadily to diminish. We had 87,468 "habitués" in 1869; now the evil roll is only 52,153.

When the population of England was 10,275,000 in 1840, there were 2,589 persons undergoing penal servitude; now, with a population of 27,830,179, the number is only 947. In 1878 the entire number of prisoners in our jails was 20,833; the entire number at the same date last year was 12,663, though the population had increased by 6,000,000. Bunge's is also declining. In 1870, 1,070,391 persons were in receipt of relief; in 1891, with an addition of more than 7,000,000 inhabitants, there were only 734,905. The upshot of these figures without pressing them too much—seems surely to be that the "cosmic process" in our own little corner of the universe is not doing so badly.—Sir Edwin Arnold in Longman's Magazine.

House of Olden Times.

In the very long ago, these were not stockings as now worn, but made long, and were often drawn up even to the waist, and, oddly enough, had pockets in their sides. We read, moreover, that in the time of the Tudors and Stuarts they were of great variety, both of material and color, and for such as could command the luxury were richly trimmed and costly; they were even called "mother stocks."—Harper's Bazar.

SUDDEN DEATH!

The Community Shocked.

Last evening, just after tea, while Mr. Thomas Hartman, a prominent and highly respected citizen, apparently in the best of health and spirits, was reading a newspaper, the sheet slipped from his hands, and he placed one hand over his heart, gasped, and sank back in his chair, evidently unconscious. The family were stricken with consternation, and immediately summoned a physician. He arrived in a few minutes, examined the patient, and pronounced him dead. The old gentleman was dead. Physicians gave heart disease as the cause.—Hollbrook Herald.

Every day the papers contain statements similar to the above. Even youth is no longer immune from heart disease, and the rapidity with which it is claiming victims forces upon all a conviction of its prevalence.

Reader if you have a symptom of this dread disease do not hesitate a moment in attempting to cure it. Delay is always dangerous, and in heart disease too often fatal. Some symptoms of heart disease are shortness of breath, fluttering, or palpitation, pain or tenderness in left side, shoulder, or arm, irregular pulse, smothering, weak or hungry spells, fainting spells, dropsy, etc.

Charles Hays, York, Pa., writes: "I suffered from heart disease 22 years. Frequently my heart would stop into my mouth, and my condition made me very melancholy. Physicians gave me many remedies, but none did me any good until I used Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure. I was not expected to live, but was induced as a last resort to use Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure. The second day I felt great relief, and at the end of ten days I felt like a king. My gratitude is too deep for words."

Joseph Rockwell, Uniontown, Pa., aged 82 years, writes: "For four years previous to getting the New Heart Cure I was afflicted with heart disease in a very severe form. I had been in bed for many months, and could not move. I was very weak and had no appetite. I was very much distressed, and at the end of ten days I felt like a king. My gratitude is too deep for words."
